What are Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD)?

Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders is an umbrella term used to describe disorders that result from alcohol exposure during pregnancy.

Are there behaviors I may notice?

Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders refers to a range of effects that can occur in a person who was exposed to alcohol during pregnancy. Exposure to alcohol during pregnancy can cause the baby to have conditions that can create lifelong problems:

- Difficulty learning and remembering new information
- Difficulty learning from mistakes
- Self-regulation difficulties including temper tantrums, anger, rigidity
- Difficulty understanding social cues / body language
- Excessive friendliness with strangers
- Need for close supervision

Support from People who Understand...

NAMI Franklin County hosts a monthly support group for people who have children who may be exhibiting signs and symptoms of FASD. Meetings are held on the second Thursday of each month, from 6:00 - 7:30 p.m., via Zoom. No registration is required.

Join us via Zoom: Meeting ID - 778-659-9694

The FASD Family Support Groups are facilitated by trained NAMI Franklin County staff members. If you are a family member or a caregiver and need support, please plan to join us!

FASD Family Support Groups are free; no registration required.
